

Quiz Nights

Alf Bodimeade, our treasurer, who runs the very successful 'Quiz in the City', runs a local version annually in Haywards Heath. The event takes place in the Social club of the Princess Royal Hospital. The results have provided some embarrassment for the chairman as her team has won it twice out of the three that have been held! Then she does deserve some reward for efforts as she organizes the quiz and spends a lot of time blagging raffle prizes from local retailers.

As well as being most enjoyable these quiz nights raise significant amounts of money. The first raised £700, the second £867 and the most recent, £912

Thirteen teams entered the first quiz in October 2007. There were six rounds, Pot Luck, Travel and Geography, The Big Screen, Famous People, Music and History of the 20th century. There was an interval after 3 rounds in which a cold buffet was served and the raffle was drawn. The chairman's team won by a single point.

The second quiz night in October 2008 followed a similar format but this year there was a fish and chip supper which was well received but was something of a logistical nightmare for the caterers. This year the chairman's team lost by a single point. The chap with the microphone is Alf Bodimeade, our quizmaster

In October 2009 there was a last minute crisis as Alf, our quizmaster, fell ill. Fortunately Adrian Carter, our secretary's husband, stepped in and did an excellent job.
